

Second Annual Workshop on Macroeconomic Implications of Migration

Call for Papers

The Bank of Canada, the Global Migration Center at the University of California Davis, the Economics Department at ITAM and the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco would like to invite you to submit a paper to the second edition of the workshop on the Macroeconomic Implications of Migration that will take place at the SF FED on August 25, 2023. The conference will be in person with a remote option to participate.

The goal of the workshop is to promote discussion and dissemination of innovative theoretical and empirical research on the macroeconomic implications of migration. The organizing committee invites research submissions on topics related (but not limited) to:

- The labor market impact of (im)migration
- The effects of (im)migration on firms' behavior, productivity, and innovation
- The business-cycle behavior of migration and its relation to monetary and fiscal policies
- (Internal) migration and its response to different economic shocks and policies
- The effect of immigration on prices and the housing market
- Fiscal and public finance implications of (im)migration
- The interplay between migration, foreign investment, and trade
- Post-pandemic migration (internal and international)
- Migration caused by climate change or conflict

The keynote speakers for the workshop are Abigail Wozniak (Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis) and Gordon Hanson (Harvard). We also have confirmation of participation from the following scholars: Rebecca Diamond (Stanford), Cecile Gaubert (UC Berkeley), Gaurav Khanna (UC San Diego), Linda Tesar (University of Michigan).

The deadline for submission is April 15th, 2023. Please email your submission to sf.er.migrationconference@sf.frb.org. Submissions should include either a full paper or an extended abstract with the main results. Authors of accepted papers will be notified by end of April.
